

ABSTRACT

A power supply provides direct current power supply to peripheral devices inside or outside of a computer main unit after the computer system is switched off, to solve the problem of the prior art wherein power is no longer supplied to the components in 5 the computer or peripheral devices after the computer main unit is switched off.